Corick House Wins Big at Irish Hotel Awards 2019

Now in its third year, the 2019 Irish Hotel Awards was held in The Galmont Hotel & Spa, Galway. With over 300 guests in attendance representing hospitality professionals from across the island, the evening was a celebration of outstanding excellence in the industry.

Hotelier Avril Robson, who along with her brothers Andrew Beacom and Haldane Mc Cleary own and run Corick House Hotel & Spa, returned to the rolling countryside of Clogher Valley, Co.Tyrone with three prestigious wins:

Irish Spa Hotel of the Year
Ulster Spa Hotel of the Year
Ulster Country House Hotel of the Year

“We are honoured to have received three prestigious awards at the 2019 Irish Hotel Awards. It is especially rewarding as the assessment process was based on a 280 point report on the guest experience, from reservation and check-in, right through to checkout and departure. The recognition is a testament to the hard-work and dedication of the team at Corick House Hotel & Spa. We will continue to strive for excellence and I would like to take this opportunity to thank all of our staff and loyal customers for their continued support.” - Avril Robson

Shane Smith, Managing Director of NI Media who run the awards said “Each and every one of our members has been individually assessed and our winners here tonight were judged by a panel of industry professionals. One of our researchers recently commented that “there is a big difference between a good hotel and a memorable hotel” and we know from our results that each and every one of our member hotels are doing just that and delivering memorable experiences for their guests. The figures for the early part of the year show a +7% in overseas arrivals and this is in no small part due to the efforts of hospitality professionals across the island.”
